Top Hotel Interview Questions

A quick reference to what interviewers really want to hear.

Interview Question	What Interviewers Want to Hear
Tell me about yourself.	A brief summary of your background, hospitality experience, and career goals.
Why do you want to work at this hotel?	Evidence you've researched the property and genuinely want to join the brand.
What skills will you bring?	Customer service, communication, teamwork, and role-specific expertise.
What are your strengths?	Problem-solving, guest handling, or attention to detail.
Comfortable with rotational shifts & weekends?	Flexibility and understanding of hospitality work schedules.

"Tell Me About Yourself" Template

Use the simple Past – Present – Future framework.

1

Past

Your education, internship, or previous hospitality experience.

2

Present

Current skills, responsibilities, and what you've learned.

3

Future

Why this role fits your career goals.

FILL-IN-THE-BLANK TEMPLATE

"I have a background in [education/experience] and gained experience in [internship/hotel/role]. Through that, I developed skills in [customer service, communication, operations, problem-solving]. I'm excited about this opportunity because it aligns with my career goals and lets me contribute to excellent guest experiences."

Tip: Keep it relevant, confident, and concise — a strong self-introduction takes 1–2 minutes.

Front Office Questions

Sample questions with what each one is really testing.

How would you handle a guest who wants an early check-in?

They assess: Balancing guest satisfaction with hotel policy and room availability. Offer to store luggage, check housekeeping status, and set clear expectations on timing.

How would you manage an overbooking situation?

They assess: Staying calm, communicating clearly, and arranging practical solutions such as a comparable “walk” property while protecting the guest relationship.

How would you upsell a room category during check-in?

They assess: Sales instinct and the ability to enhance the guest experience while generating additional revenue — focus on value and benefits, not price.

Receptionist Questions

How would you welcome and check in a guest?

They assess: Warm greeting, professionalism, and knowledge of the arrival process — confirm details, explain facilities, and offer assistance.

How would you handle a frustrated guest at the desk?

They assess: Staying calm, listening actively, empathising, and resolving the issue professionally before escalating where needed.

Housekeeping Questions

How do you ensure rooms meet cleanliness standards?

They assess: Attention to detail and consistency — using checklists, following SOPs, and double-checking high-touch areas.

What would you do if you found a maintenance issue while cleaning?

They assess: Prompt reporting to prevent guest complaints and protect room readiness.

Hotel Waiter & F&B Questions

How do you recommend menu items to guests?

They assess: Product knowledge, communication, and natural upselling — suggest pairings and signature dishes confidently.

How would you manage multiple tables during peak hours?

They assess: Organisation, prioritisation, and composure under pressure.

Hostess Questions

How would you greet and welcome guests on arrival?

They assess: Confidence, warmth, and a guest-first communication style that creates strong first impressions.

How would you handle a VIP guest or special request?

They assess: Attention to detail and the ability to deliver personalised, anticipatory service.

Sales & Revenue Questions

How would you adjust room rates during high demand?

They assess: Understanding of dynamic pricing and revenue optimisation.

Which revenue metrics do you monitor regularly?

They assess: Familiarity with ADR, RevPAR, occupancy, and market share.

What role does a channel manager play in revenue strategy?

They assess: Knowledge of distribution, inventory management, and online booking channels.

STAR Method for Behavioural Questions

Structure real examples clearly and professionally.

S
Situation
What was the challenge or scenario?

T
Task
What responsibility did you have?

A
Action
What steps did you take?

R
Result
What was the outcome?

Tip: Use real examples from internships, hotel training, college events, or volunteer work. Authentic stories beat rehearsed answers.

Interview Preparation Checklist

- [ ] Research the hotel brand & location
- [ ] Understand the role and its responsibilities
- [ ] Prepare your “Tell Me About Yourself” answer
- [ ] Practise 5–6 STAR examples
- [ ] Review common guest-handling scenarios
- [ ] Prepare 2–3 questions to ask the interviewer
- [ ] Confirm interview time, location & format
- [ ] Plan formal attire & grooming the night before
- [ ] Carry extra resume copies & ID
- [ ] Arrive 10–15 minutes early

Grooming & Appearance Tips

In hospitality, your presentation reflects the service standard you'll deliver.

- ✓ Wear clean, well-fitted formal business attire
- ✓ Keep hair neat; conservative, tidy styling
- ✓ Maintain trimmed nails and minimal, subtle fragrance
- ✓ Polished, closed footwear in good condition
- ✓ Minimal accessories and natural, professional makeup
- ✓ Confident posture, warm smile, and eye contact

Hiring Manager Evaluation Scorecard

Score candidates consistently against core hospitality competencies (1 = low, 5 = high).

Evaluation Criteria	Score (1–5)
Communication & Composure	○ ○ ○ ○ ○
Guest Service Instinct	○ ○ ○ ○ ○
Adaptability & Learning Ability	○ ○ ○ ○ ○
Role Knowledge	○ ○ ○ ○ ○
Culture & Team Fit	○ ○ ○ ○ ○

Green Flags vs. Red Flags

Green Flags	Red Flags
Gives specific examples from experience	Relies on generic, scripted answers
Demonstrates a guest-first mindset	Focuses only on tasks & duties
Stays calm discussing challenges	Becomes defensive about mistakes
Willing to learn and adapt	Resists feedback or change

Note: A structured scorecard reduces bias and helps compare candidates objectively — beyond what's visible on a resume.
